It is not worth while to try to evade the fact, that this homicide is but another to be added to the long catalogue of crimes resulting from the use, of liquor. And had whisky may have been in sthis transaction, but from what witnesses said last Sunday, it was beer, and beer only, that inspired the spirit which resulted in the death of a manone who some of the most respectable of the witnesses testified was generally a quiet, orderly citizen. Not one of the large crowd present on Sunday afternoon could avoid seeing the inevitable connection between cause and effect, in this case-that liquor and murder are as inseparable as the Siamese twins. We have warned our community hundreds of times of this fact, yet it seems to waken no general spirit of opposition to act? Self preservation is the first law of nature, and our indifference can't repeal it.
